The East Coast Dirt Late Model Series returns to Tyrepower Parramatta City Raceway (NSW) Saturday March 6 with the Port Macquarie based SKM Motorsport Team planning to be in the thick of the action.

“We’ve had a very up and down season, and we are looking to get some consistent form happening Saturday night” said SKM Motorsport Team Principal and Driver Neil Wallace.

“This sport always throws up plenty of obstacles, and we have certainly had more than our share this summer, so hopefully we can turn our season around and get it heading back in the right direction”.

“Lately, it’s not only our opposition we’ve had to beat, it’s also the weather! Two out of our last three meetings have been washed away so let’s hope it stays fine Saturday night” Wallace said.

“I know the SKM Motorsport Team can get the job done at Parramatta as we won the final Feature race there last season. We just need to put all our car problems behind us and get back on the pace this weekend”.

“The only plus to come out of the most recent rainout was that it gave us extra time to ensure our car preparation was thorough” concluded Wallace.
