

KMC Racing back on track at Parramatta

ABOVE : Kevin Stevens and the KMC Racing #8 Dodge have been off track for more than a season but the Team are setting themselves for a great 2009/10 campaign.

After missing last season due to work commitments Kevin Stevens and the KMC Racing Dirt Late Model team are set to return to the track at Tyrepower Parramatta City Raceway (NSW) Saturday December 5 in Round 2 of the East Coast Late Model Series.

Stevens, who has competed in numerous forms of motor sport over the past 35 years, is determined to make up for lost time with a good 2009/10 season.

“KMC Racing is a family operated team so last season we had to put work commitments ahead of our speedway pursuits. The time away was good though, as it gave us the opportunity to go over the car thoroughly and update a lot of the running gear” said Stevens from the teams Canberra base.

“We are still running our trusty Rayburn chassis that has served us so well. The chassis has never been involved in a major crash and is very forgiving to drive, so our philosophy is if it ain't broke, we don't need a new one”.

“I've driven conservatively for a long time, but this season, with the updates we've made, I'm determined to run at the pointy end of the field on a regular basis. We have given the car a shake down and are ready to go. Having run the same chassis for so long it allows you to get comfortable with the setup and we would really like to show what results can be achieved without using all the latest and greatest gear” Stevens said.

The KMC Racing #8 Rayburn will run a Dodge Charger body and be powered by the team's reliable Mopar engine. In keeping with the Mopar theme KMC Racing will run its traditional white and blue colours.

“We have very strong sponsor support in 2009/10. Many of our sponsors have been with us a long time, and stuck with the team through the highs and the lows, so it would be great to reward them with some top results. Saturday night at Parramatta can't come soon enough as far as I'm concerned" concluded Stevens.
