A difficult October race meeting at Tyrepower Parramatta City Raceway (NSW) has the Port Macquarie based SKM Motorsport Dirt Late Model Team eager to make amends when they contest Round 2 of the East Coast Late Model Series at the same track on Saturday December 5.

“Our last meeting at Parramatta in October didn’t go as smoothly as planned” said Team Principal / Driver Neil Wallace.

“We were looking to kick this season off with some good results but damaged a j-bar in a Heat 1 incident and didn’t realise the extent of the damage until we took to the track in Heat 2. The j-bar problem resulted in some differential damage in race 2 so we had to undertake rushed repairs in order to make the Main”.

“After starting rear of field we soldiered on to finish 4th, mainly as a result of the attrition rate of our rivals”.

“It wasn’t a great result, so this Saturday night we are looking to make amends. We have thoroughly gone over the car and repaired any damage”.

“Parramatta is a tough track to master, but after winning the final A Main there last season I know the team is capable of repeating that success in 2009/10” concluded Wallace.

After Round 1 of the East Coast Late Model Series Neil Wallace is placed in 6th position.
