

Daracon Croft Racing look for Parramatta Grand National glory

With only one run on the board at Tyrepower Parramatta City Raceway (NSW) thus far this season the Daracon Croft Racing Dirt Late Model Team will be looking to repeat last years form when they compete at the inner city clayway Saturday March 20 in the Tyrepower Late Model Grand National.

“This has been a somewhat frustrating season for us, with work commitments meaning we had a late start, and two Parramatta race meetings, including the original date for the Grand National, being canned because of rain” said team principal and driver Ken Croft.

“We opted to miss competing at the most recent Parramatta Dirt Late Model meeting (March 6) because the weather was once again very threatening, and it’s a long haul from our base here in Gunnedah”.

“All of this time off the track has given us plenty of time for car preparation but you really need the laps under your belt in order to settle on the ideal setup” Croft said.

“Nothing beats track time when it comes to sorting out a car, and with that in mind we elected to head across to Tamworth Speedway Saturday night February 27 to put in some testing. We ran four sessions, and I was happy with how everything went, so we packed the car away ready for Parramatta”.

“We enjoyed a great run in last years Casio G Shock Grand National and we will be looking to repeat that form Saturday night in the Tyrepower Late Model Grand National. It’s not an easy task though, as you can never tell what the track conditions will be like, so what works one meeting, may not work the next. I guess we will know if we got the setup right at the end of the Main Saturday night!” concluded Croft.

The Daracon Croft Racing Dirt Late Model Team is also planning to compete in the South Australian Late Model Title to be held at Timmis Speedway Mildura on Friday April 2 and Sunday April 4.
