

Daracon Croft Racing chase victory in Grand National

After enjoying a strong run in last years Casio G Shock Gold Cup at Tyrepower Parramatta City Raceway (NSW) the Daracon Croft Racing Dirt Late Model Team will be looking to repeat that form when it contests the Tyrepower Late Model Grand National Saturday January 23.

“Despite the name change this is the most prestigious Dirt Late Model Race on the East Coast, and every team will be going all out for victory on Saturday night” said Ken Croft.

“The Tyrepower Late Model Grand National has attracted entries from as far away as Western Australian and the USA so we are under no illusion that we will have to be right on our game if we are to stand on top of the dais at the end of the evening”.

“I must admit we’ve had limited on track preparation going into this Saturday nights race meet, although we are confident in the setup we have on the #71 Rocket as long as the track conditions come our way”.

“The track was very heavy last Friday night (January 15), and it was our first time back at Parramatta in 12 months, so we didn’t really learn a lot that can help us this week” Croft said.

“We took it pretty easy on Friday night and finished with a 4th and 7th in the Heats. In the Main we started 7th, and worked our way up to 4th place by the time the flag fell”.

“Most importantly we headed home to Gunnedah with the car in one piece, meaning we only have some minor maintenance to perform prior to the Grand National”.

“We lead last year’s race only to spear off the track and tag the wall, so this year we are planning to be there at the chequered flag, hopefully at the pointy end of the field” concluded Croft.
